

6th International Conference on Plant Proteomics
(InPPO 2025)
May 15 to 18, 2025
Banff, AB, Canada

The International Plant Proteomics Organization (InPPO) is hosting an international conference from May 15 to 18, 2025 at the Fairmont Banff Springs Hotel, Banff, AB, Canada.

Situated on the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountain range in Banff National Park, Canada, the town of Banff represents a United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) World Heritage Site. Importantly, it is also situated on Treaty 7 Territory, which is the ancestral lands of the Niitsitapi from the Blackfoot Confederacy, along with the Siksika, Kainai, and Piikani First Nations; the Îyârhe Nakoda of the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Goodstoney First Nations; the Tsuut'ina First Nation and the Métis Nation of Alberta, representing a historic location for the intersection of peoples, languages and cultures<sup>1</sup>.

By meeting on this historic site at the beautiful Banff Springs Hotel, the 6th International Plant Proteomics Organization Conference similarly aims to intersect diverse topics and peoples from around the world to “Cultivate Innovation through the Integration of Plant Science and Proteomics”.

The scientific program features keynote and invited speakers from around the world covering innovation within proteomics themes of single-cell/cell-type, interactions and modifications, technological advances, climatic resiliency, crops and agriculture, unconventional plants, and artificial intelligence in plant discovery.

It is our pleasure to invite you to come explore, and be inspired by, the intersections between plants and proteomics with the global plant proteomics community in Banff, Alberta, Canada from May 15 - 18, 2025.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jennifer Geddes-McAlister
Associate Professor
Canada Research Chair
Molecular and Cellular Biology
Department, University of Guelph

Dr. R. Glen Uhrig
